

Amanda Marshall - Acoustic and Full Band Rarities (A Mike Solof Guest Post)

Hi Guys,

Today's guest post has been a while in coming. Way back when I posted a volume of my Uncovered series featuring lady singers, I was reminded, during the creation of that set, how much I loved Amanda Marshall and her beautiful singing voice. That of course led me down the rabbit hole search for rarities by her, and that finally led to this collection. I was able to find a great set of solo acoustic tunes she performed on various radio shows, along with a few with her band, as well as some early demo cuts before she signed to do her first album and even a couple previously unreleased cuts, and non LP tracks.

If you've never heard of Amanda before, it's probably because she first started becoming popular around 29 years ago, and then, after producing three albums over a six-year period, got fed up with the business and dealing with label and her management... and took a break. A very, very long break!

A freakin' 22-year-long break!!!!

But the good news is that she's finally back, and she put out a new album in 2023 called "Heavy Lifting."

So... If you like this album... do yourself a big favor and track down her other three studio albums she did between 1995-2001. They are phenomenal and she kept getting better and better until her, ahhh... break. And actually, this is more like two albums. I've split this music into two, with the first half consists of all acoustic performances while the second half consists entirely of performances with her full band.

Enjoy,

Michael
